Term loans are available to graduate students up to a maximum of $2,500 per academic year. Annual renewals are available to students maintaining normal progress toward the degree being sought at the time the original loan was made.

Repayment begins one year from the date you cease to be a student, or five years from the date of the note, whichever comes first. Interest is 5% per annum. Repayment is in ten equal annual installments of principal plus interest accrued each year. No interest accrues during the period a student is in school or in the first year following graduation or leaving school. No payments are due, nor does interest accrue, during the time (up to 3 years) you are on full time active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States.

Students who receive Mellinger loans are required to keep the Foundation advised of their date of graduation and of any changes in that date, and also of any changes in their current address.
